FINANCE AND TRADE.

FINANCIAL BUSINESS remains quiet, so quiet that some of our energetic moneyed men are out of patience. Money that should make money is lying dead harseliles. 11,000 marseilles. 12,000 marseilles. 11,000 marseilles. 13,500 marseilles. 11,000 marseilles. 13,500 marseilles. 13, that should make money is lying dead and motionless; the time is approaching when moneyed institutions will be expected to declare dividends. Where are they to come from when money is lying as motionless as a fish in a gasmeter? Yet a large part of the community are obstructed in their operations for want of the use of these very unused dollars. What can be borrow? Exchange being almost the only thing within the grasp of the capialist, extraordinary eagurement. talist, extraordinary eagerness is shown to get hold of it. The general rate remains as before quoted: New York buying at par, selling at 1 premium; Boston and eastern cities generally, at par; New Orleans 1. From this general rate there are certain exceptionsthere is a bank or two that will take New York—when a round sum is offered-at & premium, and New Orleans, in all cases, at 1 discount. This remains unchanged from Wednesday, but now it appears probable that the chaos of exchange will be made still more abyssmal by New York being sold at par instead of 1-to buy New York at 1 premium, under such circumstances, will be a feat of some difficulty. Mobile quoted 15 c, Charle ton 15c, Galveston 15%c, Memphis 15%c. In our market there was considerable desire to sell, and lots of nice middling and strict middling cotton which, a short time ago, no offer could bring from their concealment, were freely put upon the market. The exporters, however, being the principal operations, the precedence was given to low medium cotions, the sales being principally confined to grades not below ordinary or above strict good ordinary. The following prices were reported in answer to our nquiries: Stained cottons, 113c; inferior to low ordinary, 4 @Se; ordinary, 9 e; strict ordinary, 11, 114 and 114c; good ordinary, 13@134e; strict good ordinary, 13, 134 and 14c; low middling, 14@14@; strict low middling, 141@14@; middling, 15@15]e; strict middling, 15]e; good middling, 16]e. The feeling became more cheerful as the day went on, and the market closed with a recovered tone and reviving confidence. The cotton exchange reported officially the following figures:

Market firm, with a good demand; sales, 4000 bales, of which spinners took 800 and speculators 3200 bales. Re-ceipts at all ports were 83,389 bales against 85,413 last week, and 63,607 causes are required to develop that ten-dency into an actual decline. With the becoming larger, no increase of strength can be anticipated. Perhaps, however, the more immediate cause of the decline this week, may be traced to the fact that on Tuesday morning, (the exchange being closed Monday) larger.
